

Burlesque Beauties Dancing Up A Summer Storm

Vancouver, BC (August 13, 2008) – Vancouver's local darlings, The Burlesque Beauties have been dancing up a storm this summer. This dance troupe has been representing Vancouver's talent from LA's Playboy Mansion, to this summer's all-star event, Celeb Kids.

The ultimate luxury party house, the Playboy Mansion, opened its doors to celebrities, hipsters and a proper representation of Vancouver guests. Hosting a private event, the Playboy Mansion's evening entertainment was lead by The Burlesque Beauties (www.burlesquebeauties.com).

The six sassy and sensual ladies of the Burlesque Beauties introduced the audience into the discerning world of nuevo-burlesque. Organized by recognized Vancouver producers, CanThrill Productions and CMC Entertainment, this night truly lived up to the Playboy Mansion's reputation of providing unadulterated fun, while guests gathered to experience the best of Los Angeles tradition.

"Not only was this an incredibly memorable time for all those who experienced an elite Playboy Mansion party, but this is an awesome opportunity for our dance troupe to represent Canadian talent," shared Carla Catherwood, CMC Entertainment Principal and founder of the Burlesque Beauties.

While the Burlesque Beauties were in L.A. la land, they stopped by to visit Vancouver's Canadian designer, Jason Dussault and his L.A. location, the Dussault Apparel™ Motel Store. The themed store is designed to look like a creepy 1970's roadside motel, and is famous for shutting down part of Melrose Avenue for it's grand opening launch that was co-hosted by Dussault's business partner in the MoneyBag fashion line, Gene Simmons.

Next up on the girls' summer agenda was the Blo Blow Dry Bar's Naughty or Nice Party, in support of BC Cancer Foundation. The Yaletown street party was a round up of Vancouver's fashion forward crowd, and a frenzy of glam media represented by the likes of E! Talk Daily, Hello! Canada and more.

The Burlesque Beauties truly left their mark on L.A., both on the Playboy Mansion and on the Dussault Apparel™ Motel Store. Celebs for Kids (www.celebsforkids.ca) August 14-15, 2008, is the next major event where the Burlesque Beauties will be performing.
